

Restorative responses to gendered and sexual harm: Challenges and possibilities

This is an in-person event

Date May 14, 2026

Time 6:00 pm to 7:30 pm

Location Third floor program room
Page 1 - <https://hive.ca/> | Accessed: April 26, 2026 - 01:23 PM

Event type Community organizers

REGISTER

Back to all events

Event overview

May 14, 2026

6:00 pm to 7:30 pm

In the fourth and final event of North Shore Restorative Justice Society and Capilano University's 2026 Speaker Series, we'll hear from NSRJ Director of Programs, Nermin Karim, and Capilano University's Dr. Sarah Yercich on how restorative justice can be used even in situations of gendered and sexual harm.

The Restorative Justice Speakers Series aims to deepen public understanding of restorative justice as a transformative approach to conflict, harm, crime, and community-building by bringing together academics, justice and other professionals, and the broader public in meaningful dialogue.

Presented by North Shore Restorative Justice and Capilano University Criminology Department in partnership with the West Vancouver Memorial Library and the North Vancouver City Library, the Speakers Series was designed to inspire four conversations, each focused on a different aspect of restorative justice.

Registration is recommended, but drop-ins may be allowed if space permits. Questions? Email info@nvcl.ca or call 604-998-3450.

REGISTER

Calendar

Share